ANNOUNCING THE 2014 LAUNCH
SIT. LISTEN. STAND UP.

Philip Gourevitch, New York Times journalist and award-winning author of We Wish to Inform You That Tomorrow We Will Be Killed With Our Families, takes us forward 20 years in Rwanda where forgiveness affords attackers and survivors, murderers, orphans, widows and childless mothers to live side-by-side. Thursday, May 15, 2014, 6:30 p.m. at the Hughes-Trigg Student Center at SMU, 3140 Dyer St, Dallas, TX 75205

Dorothy (Dori) Budd, former child sex crimes prosecutor for the Dallas County District Attorney's office, is co-author of the book, Tested: How Twelve Wrongly Imprisoned Men Held onto Hope. In 2009, the Budd family became interested in the plight of wrongly convicted men and put together a book exploring the lives of twelve exonerated men, giving them a voice to share their personal journeys of hope, forgiveness and redemption. Tuesday, September 9, 2014, 7:00 p.m. at the Dallas Holocaust Museum

Harry Wu is the author several books including Bitter Winds, a memoir of his 19 years of imprisonment in the Chinese labor camps. From the horrors of life in the labor camps to human rights abuses, such as selling the organs of executed prisoners and dead labor camp internees, Mr. Wu discusses the essential issues of state sponsored terror and torture. He understands firsthand the excesses and arbitrary nature of unchecked power and governments. Thursday, December 4th, 6:30 p.m., Location TBD

Admission for each event is $10. No charge to Museum members.

SIT. LISTEN. STAND UP.

As part of its continuing commitment to inspire people to think about the consequences of their choices by remembering and teaching the Holocaust and other genocides, the Dallas Holocaust Museum presents the first speaker in its inaugural annual Upstander Speaker Series in 2014.

The Dallas Holocaust Museum/Center for Education and Tolerance raises fundamental questions about human nature and we challenge others and ourselves to become aware of what is going on around us and around the world and to be Upstanders in ways that we choose. This series will bring some speakers from around the globe to show you what being an Upstander can look like.

We are grateful to people and organizations that contribute to this series:
